

HIGH RELIABILITY TRAINING

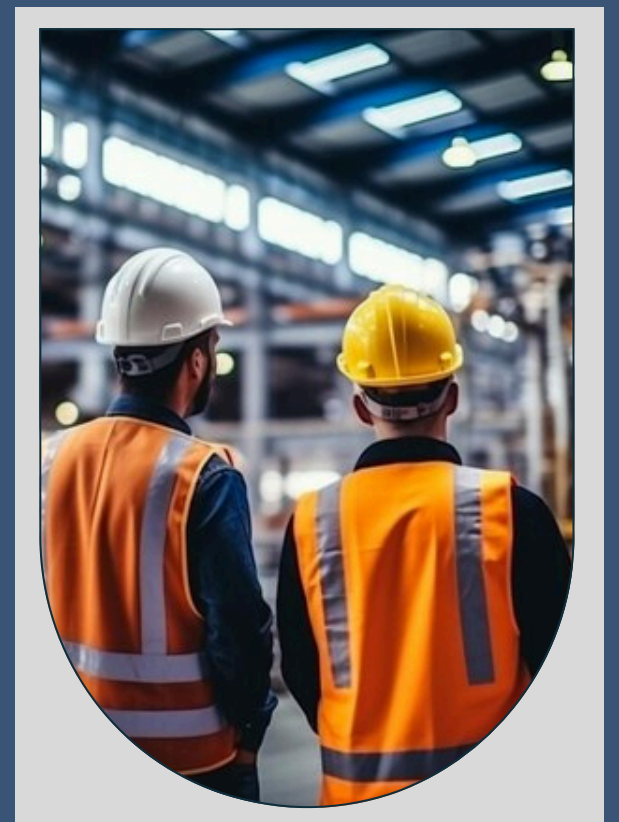

- A High Reliability Partners Company -

High Reliability Training was formed because of a lack of quality online and video-based curriculum in the areas of Human & Organizational Performance (HOP) and High Reliability Operations (HRO). HOPE consulting LLC, an industry leader in HOP and HRO onsite consulting partnered with Safety Instruct, an industry leader in safety-based video production and software development.

We can help your company by providing:

- Off-the-shelf online video based training focused on HOP and HRO initiatives
- Custom curriculum and video production services to directly address your challenges
- Initial and ongoing consultation services to understand the critical issues you are facing
- Ongoing HOP, HRO, and Safety based training courses
- An organizational assessment of current performance
- Annual and remedial review of training initiatives to assess comprehension, retention, and implementation

Video Based Training

Online training often suffers from low-quality content, with many companies relying on narrated slideshows or animations that fail to enhance retention or comprehension.

We focus on real workers in real situations, offering semi-custom or fully custom training that integrates your specific policies and procedures. Learning management features and software extensions are also available.

Custom Curriculum and Video Production

HRT provides custom curriculum and video production services tailored to your challenges. We offer onsite production, semi-custom videos, and a video-based library available for use. If you have specialized training needs, our video-driven approach to curriculum development can help solve them effectively.
